This week at Fair Furlong

This week it has been wonderful to have more children back in school and for things to be feeling a little more normal. However if you are still at home please know that we are thinking of you and here for you to help if you need it. Please do get in touch regarding learning via the year group email and regarding any other concerns via the school office. We are really happy to support where we can.

You will see some photos in the following pages celebrating some wonderful things going on in school and out. Well done to everyone (children and grown-ups!) for all your efforts. Check out the online celebration assembly for weekly awards.

I will let you know about any changes to plans or updates for September as soon as I have them.

In the key worker group we have been having a French week. The children have created art using pointillism in the style of Feurat.

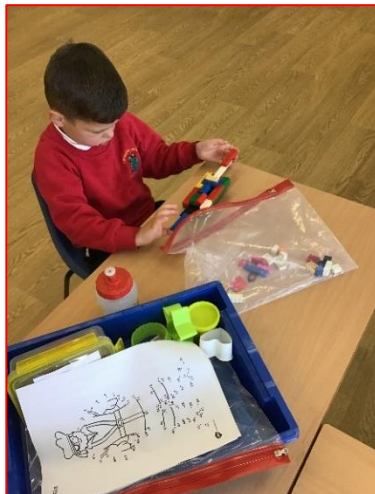

Year 5 have been busy learning about climate zones, with last year focusing on the freezing Polar regions. After conducting some fantastic research into Polar climates, the weather patterns and animals that live there, they created an investigation that measured the effects of global warming. Here are some images of work from Ethan Bale, Lexi-Mai Pumford and Keigan Harding. They created the ice caps and watched what happened to the environment once the ice caps started to melt. Well done!!

Cupcake's Giant Adventure

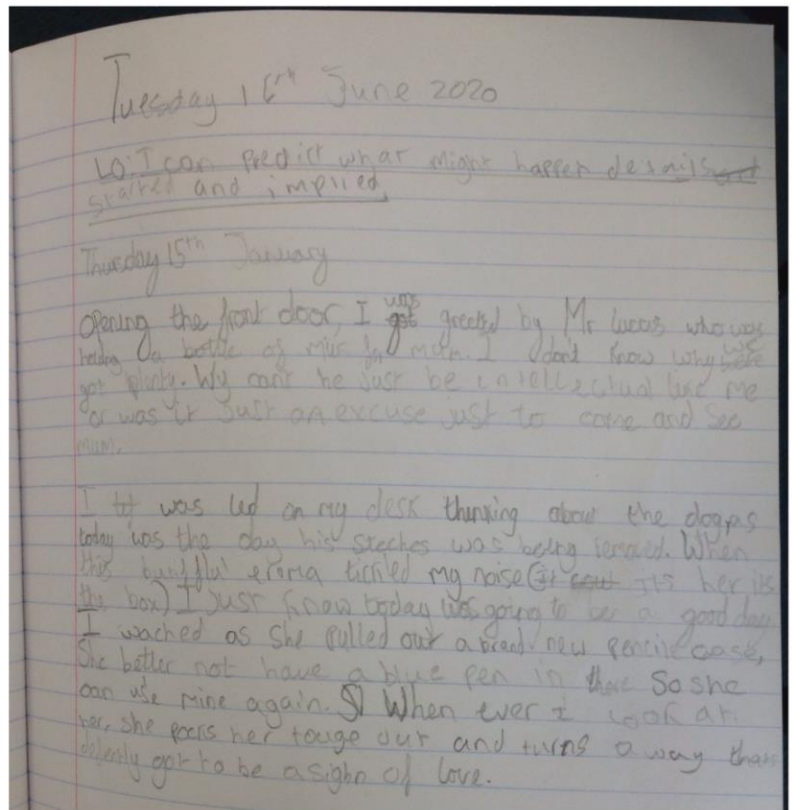

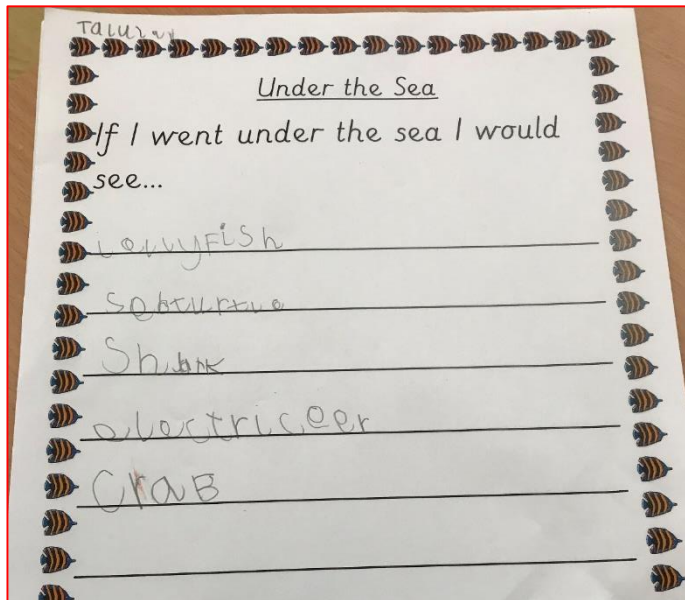

On a hot, sunny morning, Dan was in his science lab with his cat Cupcake. "Ben and Bella will be here soon!" Dan said excitedly. Cupcake was in the corner playing with her toy mouse. Suddenly, Ben burst through the door. "Dan, we can't wait to see your new potion!" He shouted loudly. "Ben, please calm down we do not want any accidents," Dan explained. Bella came quietly through the door and went over to stroke Cupcake. "Hi Uncle Dan," she spoke softly picking up Cupcake and putting her on the desk. "I just need to go upstairs; I will be back to show you my potion soon" Dan called. Bella picked up a bottle and looked at it but she did not know what it was. "Here Cupcake try this," Bella said giving it to Cupcake. The doorbell rang. Ben went to answer the door. It was Misty, Bella's best friend, who walked to school with them. "Bye Uncle Dan we need to go to school now we will come and see your new potion later," Ben called up the stairs. As they left for school, they had no idea that Cupcake was growing larger and larger by the second. Bella had fed Cupcake Dan's new potion, which makes you grow into a giant.

After school, Bella, Ben and Misty started walking back to Dan's science lab. Suddenly, they heard a strange, loud noise coming from up above. "Oh my, Bella is that Cupcake?" yelled Misty. Looking up Bella was surprised to see a giant Cupcake staring over the wall at them. "I am in big, big trouble!" Bella screamed. "Hi Cupcake, what are you doing up there? And why are you so big?" asked Ben. The three children ran as fast as they could to reach the top of the stairs. Looking around them, they could not believe their eyes. The town hall had been destroyed and a large skyscraper was laid flat on the floor. "This is bad, Cupcake has destroyed these buildings!" shrieked Misty. Cupcake was hungry she was destroying the city trying to look for something to eat. "Quick, we need to find the antidote and fast!" shouted Ben. Running as fast as they could the three children raced to Dan's lab but when they arrived, Dan was in a panic with smashed bottles all around him. "Oh, thank goodness you are here. Please help me this is a terrible mess!" Dan cried. Quickly, they all started trying to find the antidote, but no one could find it anywhere. "I have it, this is it!" Misty yelled. Dan ran to Misty "yes that is it, well done Misty you need to go and give this to Cupcake as quickly as you can," he explained. Misty ran to find Cupcake. "Here fluff ball you have to drink this, or we will be in more trouble!" Misty shouted. Cupcake did as she was told and drank the antidote, she began shrinking. Looking around her, Misty could see how much had been destroyed by Cupcake. "This is bad!" she thought to herself. Once Cupcake was her normal size Misty picked her up and took her back to the lab. "Well done Misty you have saved the day!" Dan said clapping his hands. Ben stroked Cupcake "no more giant adventures for you" he whispered quietly.

One month later...after working extremely hard to put the city back as it was the locals had finally finished. Everyone helped and they all hoped that Dan and his potions would never cause any more trouble in their city. Were they right? We will have to wait and see....

Lovely writing from Talulah and Mason Thatcher did some amazing writing this week based on the book of Adrian Mole's Diary. He had to predict what might happen next.
